

GMVML FAQ Response - Board Communications

The Board accepts as a fair challenge that the level of communications with Leaseholders has not been adequate. In recent times the communications have generally been the covering messages with the Service Charge demands (February each year), the annual accounts (September each year) and ad-hoc updates when there have been substantive messages about cladding and fire safety related topics.

The Board agrees that communication can and should be increased/improved. The Board previously issued regular newsletters and conducted annual surveys that fed into an improvement plan. Since the cladding crisis that has been the main topic of communication and the bulk of the queries coming in from leaseholders. The Board previously placed reliance upon the GMV Residents Association meetings as the opportunity to update Leaseholders and residents and take questions. However, these meetings have not taken place consistently over the last few years; and the size of the wider GMV population, including the Peartree Way side of GMV, has resulted in a greater focus of those meetings on issues which may not be as pertinent to participants from GMV West (GMVML). The purpose of these meetings is for Residents, which is in many cases, a different population from the Leaseholders who are members of GMVML.

It is agreed that separate dedicated meetings (outside of the GMVRA sessions) should be established for Leaseholders/members of GMVML to hear updates on the village as well as an opportunity to raise queries, suggestions and challenges. A large proportion of leaseholders are not resident in the village so it may be that the Board will explore a format for meetings so that leaseholders can either join in person or via an online platform. This forum could be an opportunity for Leaseholders to share ideas on either cost saving opportunities of service provision issues, as this isn't something that has been specifically sought directly by the Board recently.

We also need to explore additional channels for communication. That might be a new portal from the managing agent or a dedicated platform that can be moderated, provide tracking for issues and flag updates more concisely.

There is no requirement for a company to hold Annual General Meetings (AGMs), but as described above, the Leaseholder meetings that the Board will convene will be the opportunity for Leaseholders to raise queries and discuss topics with the Board.
